Reader's Opinions

I would actually give this book 4.5...I was swept up in this story. Although the plot was very original, the writing style is what embraced me. I was enraptured with the dialogue and setting description. The narration propelled the story with subtlety and attention to details making this story...

It is the early 1800's in Provo Utah and Maggie and sister Giovanna have been fostered by the Aldens for over 4 years, since their parents were killed. Maggie never quite feels like she belongs with the Aldens and that she is treated as a 2nd class person because of her French/Italian background. Dressing in worn clothes she feels she...
