

THE CHAIRS ARE WHERE THE PEOPLE GO: HOW TO LIVE, WORK, AND PLAY IN THE CITY

Should neighborhoods change? Is wearing a suit a good way to quit smoking? Why do people think that if you do one thing, you're against something else? Is monogamy a trick? Why isn't making the city more fun for you and your friends a super-noble political goal? Why does a computer last only three years? How often should you see your parents? How should we behave at parties? Is marriage getting easier? What can spam tell us about the world? Misha Glouberman's friend and collaborator,...

Peek Inside the Book

The idea that love is something magical, almost supernatural, in your heart, that has nothing to do with the day-to-day encounters with a real person--- that understanding of love has probably created more unhappiness and ruined more marriages...

Reader's Opinions

Did not finish. Endless mini-chapters of random unoriginal thoughts, at times originally expressed - but I was bored after chapter 5 and gave up after 17. I have no interest in reading about improv and charades classes for socially desperate millennials - I've been sceptical of that...

Wait..it's just this dude from Toronto who teaches Improv chatting about stuff? Yeah, but it's really good! Thoughtful and comforting in a "you're not the only one who worries about this stuff" way.
