

WAR PATROL OF THE U.S.S. PCE(R)852

The U.S.S. PCE(R)852 went to the rescue of ships crashed by the Japanese kamikazes, treated wounded from every branch of the services brought out from the invasion beaches or pulled out of a blazing oil covered ocean, fought off attacking Japanese planes, escorted invasion convoys and dropped depth charges of suspected Japanese submarines. One of the men or boys who took part in this true account may be your uncle, cousin, father, son or just someone you knew...

Reader's Opinions

What a great and interesting little book this is. It is probably not the most well written book there is, but the story and the details in the book are amazing. One always thinks that the big ships of the navy had all the action in the Pacific and often forget that there were numerous little ships that did a lot of the hard work in...
