Reader's Opinions

This is the memoir of 10 girls who passed through the Theresienstadt interment camp, near Prague. They were some of the twelve thousand children who passed through the Theresienstadt on their way to Auschwitz from 1942-1944....

About 1/4 of the way through, I called it quits. I was hoping for a more engaging read, but because the writing style doesn't really allow you to connect with the characters, it felt more to me like I was reading a chapter in...
