Christmas Eve Kate Hart's husband of twenty-five years has just walked out on her and an old station wagon has broken down in the rain in front of her elegant California home. The driver is a handsome young Iowa farmer. His family needs a home. Kate needs help. An uneasy deal is struck that could make Ford more than Kate's handyman. but Kate doesn't know what she wants. She's discovering some disturbing truths about her husband, her daughter, and most of all, herself. And...

Reader's Opinions

This one I remember and loved, even though I READ IT 20 years ago. A man changes his wife's life forever when he has a mid life crisis and abandons his family. Meanwhile, a beautiful, but homeless family, appears and needs a place to stay. I remember feelings of joy and love, compassion and a good outcome. The details are fuzzy. I wish...
