

PRE-RAPHAELITE POETRY: AN ANTHOLOGY

This outstanding anthology presents the most inspired verse of the the Pre-Raphaelite movement — a treasury of poems that resounds with a lush musicality of language. The poetry of Dante Gabriel Rossetti crowns this collection: highlights include "The Blessed Damozel," "My Sister's Sleep," and selections from The House of Life. Christina Rossetti is amply represented by "Remember," "Cousin Kate," "Song," "The Convent Threshold," and other memorable poems. Algernon Charles Swinburne's "The Garden of Proserpine" and William Morris'...

Peek Inside the Book

Better by far you should forget and smile than that you should remember and be sad Christina Rossetti, Pre-Raphaelite Poetry: An Anthology //

Love, which is quickly kindled in the gentle heart, seized this man for the fair form that was taken from me, the manner still hurts me. Love which absolves no beloved one from loving, seized me so strongly with his charm that, as thou seest, it does not leave me yet Dante Gabriel Rossetti, Pre-Raphaelite Poetry: An Anthology //

Reader's Opinions

This is an obliged reference for the Romantic period and the Gothic movement. Desolate vistas of decay where mysterious women walk side by side with the supernatural enrapture with each passing page. Dante Gabriel Rossetti's poems are convoluted, filled with lavish images of grandiose and isolated beauty.
